An Interactive Parent Workshop

Do you know how to support your struggling reader at home?

Learning Wise Strategies for Struggling Readers

Join us for a 3-part interactive workshop designed for parents of struggling readers by a Reading Specialist

Thurs. June 14

Thurs. June 28

Thurs. August 9

6:45 – 8:15pm

Parent participants will learn:

- * the component skills necessary for successful reading
- * how to determine your child's "just right" reading level
- * how to support your child's reading development at home during the summer
- * fun, engaging, and interactive activities that increase basic reading skills

◆ This workshop focused on activities for parents of struggling readers currently in grades 1-4 ◆

Join local Reading Specialist, Bonnie Massimino, in a focused and practical workshop designed to assist you in building your child's reading skills over the summer months.

More about the presenter: With over 25 years of experience working with students with learning disabilities, ADHD, and executive functioning challenges, both as a teacher and Learning Specialist, Bonnie Massimino, M. Ed, BCET, knows how to help struggling readers to develop reading skills so that every child moves toward becoming a successful reader. Bonnie is a certified Reading Specialist, Board Certified Educational Therapist, and special education teacher, as well as a qualified provider of Phonographix, Read Naturally, Wilson Reading Program, Orton Gillingham, Stevenson, Project Read, and Lindamood Bell reading programs.
